DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 8 is objected to because of the following informalities: "the a" in line 4 appears to be a typographical error or words are missing. This phrase should be "a rotor" (See claim 6 for similar claim language). Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Allshouse et al. (US5691636), hereinafter Allshouse.

Regarding claim 1, Allshouse discloses a method for measuring distance between a stator and an opposing rotor in a machine, in particular a refiner designed for the manufacture of paper pulp (See Allshouse FIGS. 1-4, note rotor 77 and stators 75), where the stator is provided with at least one sensor device of the magnetic type which is intended to interact with an opposing surface on the rotor (See FIGS. 2 and 3, note sensor devices shown), and where a sensor body can be moved axially in a housing mounted in the stator (See FIG. 2, note sensor body items 10 and 60 slidable in housing 42), with the sensor device being calibrated by the sensor body being moved a distance in the direction towards the rotor and the size of this movement being related to the signal value from the sensor device (See FIGS. 1-4, note sensor is an eddy current sensor, the movement of the sensor in housing would change the signal value of the sensor in relation to rotor 77), characterized in that the movement is made so large that contact is made between stops in the sensor device arranged at a predetermined distance apart and interacting with each other, with one stop being arranged on the sensor body at a predetermined distance from the end surface of the measuring end of the sensor body, which distance is considerably smaller than the length of the sensor body, and the second stop being arranged in the housing (See FIG. 2, note stops at shoulder in sensor body 10 adjacent to stop 52 in housing 42 and note stop 52 in housing 42, note also lengths and spacings related thereto).

Art Unit: 2862

Regarding claim 2, Allshouse discloses the movement is commenced from a position where the end of the sensor body is on a level with a grinding segment facing towards the rotor (See FIGS. 1-4, note sensor body can be moved inside the housing from a level with grinding segment either slightly towards the rotor as shown in FIGS. 2 or 3, or in the opposite direction to remove the sensor).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3-9 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art does not show or teach that when in the normal measuring position, the distance (e) exceeds the distance (d) as recited in the claims and in combination with the other features of the claims.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
